America Insists on More Than Degradation of Princes.

immander of the Chinese troops, is missing from the list, owing. It is stated, to the fact that Tung Fuh Stang is supported by his troops and that it would be very embarrassing to the Emperor at this moment to attempt to punish him.

Nevertheless, officials here think he should be promptly punished, and at the Cabinet meeting it was decided to instruct Minister Conger to insist that he suffer for his part in the outrages and that the penalties for some of the officials named in the decree be made more severe. Neither the President nor Secretary Hay favors the execution of the eleven Princes and officials whom the Ministers have named, but they desire the imposition of a punishment more severe than mere degradation,

It is stated on authority that no agree ment on the principal points of the nego-tiations has yet been reached. It came ou to-day that the Russian and French Minis ters are working in harmony with Minister Conger in the effort to reach a prompt con-clusion. The German Minister is apparently the principal obstructionist, and seems to be aided by the British representative Count von Waldersee is doing his share in fomenting further trouble by sending out punitive expeditions. No representations have been made to Germany to recall the expeditions, for the reason that the United States would probably be snubbed for their pains.

It was apparently the intention of the framers of the third amendment to equalize taxation by forcing money lenders to pay taxes on the property affected by their mortgage, thus relieving the borrower of the debt. The real effect of the amendment, the loan agencies say, will be to raise the rate of interest, thereby indirectly compelling the borrowers to pay the taxes on the property.

Attorney F. N. Judson yesterday stated that there was a difficult legal question involved, but that he was not prepared to say whether the amendment would stand the test of the courts or not.

E. C. Rowse, representing the Connecticut Mutual Liffe Insurance Company stated that his company had practically suspended the loan business in the State, and that he was waiting for further instructions from ils company.

Charles H. Turner stated that his company had entirely suspended loans and that would not do any more business of the sort until some line of action was agree, upon to counteract the effect of the measurement.

The impression among the loan companies is that the people voted for the amendment without giving it any thought whatever or probably under the impression that in some way it would tend to make the burden of those in debt lighter.

FILES STATEMENTS OF EXPENSES. Candidates Tell How They Spent

Almost all of the successful and some of the unsuccessful candidates for city offices and General Assembly have filed with the Recorder of Deeds and Election Commissioners a sworn statement of their expenditures for the election. The statements for the most part contain an itemized account of the manner in which the money was expended. A review of some of the large lated and committees of the items listed and a comparison of the ex-penditures of the various candidates will be ound interesting.

The election expenses of the candidates ho have submitted statements range all the way from $425, the "top notcher" down to $3.59. Joseph F. Dickmann, Sheriff-elect,

Sanford, the unsuccessful candidate for Representative in the Second District, contesses that his failing to land the prize cost him only the modest sum of $3.50, all of which, he says, went for refreshments for the "boys."

Mr. Dickmann's statement contains only three items, viz: Printing and advertising, $150; contributions to clubs, $150; refreshments and incidentals, $125.

Joseph W. Folk comes next on the list with an expenditure of $231.29. Mr. Folk reems not to have wasted any money on liquid enthusiasm, for his statement contains only items showing that he subscribed to anough small papers to furnish his family reading matter for several years. The rest went in advertising and printing.

Caroner-elect Funknouser spent $25.50. Fifty cents of this went for refreshments for somebody, and the rest was consumed by printing and stamps.

Garrard Strode spent $109, of which the printers and advertising solicitors received $71, and the rest was blown in on tickets for raffles, church festivals, balls, and "receptions."

The social and political cities in his district must feel kindly toward Collins, for he gave them $169 for refreshments. Another $199 went for incidentals, his printing and advertising cost him $18.25, and he had to "cough up" $16 for carriage hire although he is an undertaker himself.
